Russians Pleased With Reception Of Khrushchev

Editor's Note: The following analysis of Nikita Khrushchev's reception in the United States was written by Henry Shapiro, UPI Moscow Bureau chief who is accompanying the Soviet premier on his tour.

By HENRY SHAPIRO
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet sources here have expressed satisfaction with Washington's official and popular reception of Premier Nikita Khrushchev. Soviet correspondents covering the premier's visit described the reception as "warm and friendly" in their reports to Moscow.

The assessment did not tally with that of most non-Soviet reporters who watched the official ceremonies at Andrews Air Force Base and followed the presidential motorcade to Blair House.

The estimated 200,000 civilians who lined the route were civil, restrained and unadorned. There was no singular display of either enthusiasm or hostility. Many citizens appeared to be on the streets out of simple curiosity to see the world's number one Communist.

Most Reserved Reception
It was probably the most reserved reception the globe trotting Soviet Premier has experienced in the course of his wanderings from little Finland to subcontinental India.

Satisfied With Talks
Soviet observers here appeared to be pleasantly surprised by the lack of hostility such as might have been displayed had Khrushchev come here a year or so ago when American-Soviet relations were at their lowest point.

At any rate the reciprocity conscious Russians were taking note of Khrushchev's reception for use when President Eisenhower visits the Soviet Union. The official honors Eisenhower will receive in Russia later this fall unquestionably will be influenced by Khrushchev's experience here.

Sources close to the Soviet delegation also indicated moderate satisfaction with the results of the two-hour White House talk between Eisenhower and Khrushchev Tuesday.

"Not too bad for a beginning," said one Russian. He pointed out that the discussions were business-like, frank and friendly. The whole catalogue of international problems was reviewed and will be discussed again today when Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter meet for a further exchange of views in preparation for final talks at Camp David, Md., on Sept. 25.

Tigers Work On Blocking Tackling

The Murray High Tigers worked out until dark Monday, trying to correct many of the mistakes they made in the Russellville game. The coaches were not pleased with the blocking or tackling and it must improve if the Tigers are to have any chance in the next several games, they reported.

Morganfield has a big team with a very experienced line and many of its starters are back from last year. They were early choice of the coaches and sports writers to win the Class A State Championship.

Should the Tigers upset Morganfield this Friday, they would become one of the favorites for the Class A Championship. Murray's strong point to date has been the fact that they have two offensive backs of about the same ability for each position.

Because of the importance of this game to both schools, a large crowd is expected to be on hand Friday night. Game time will be at 8:00 p. m. and all fans are urged to be on hand.

Mrs. Waters Breaks Arm In Fall Tuesday

Mrs. Rich Waters of 219 South 12th Street, Murray, suffered a broken arm and cuts and bruises in a fall last Tuesday near her home.

She fell in an effort to avoid being hit by an oncoming car. Mrs. Waters stepped backwards and fell on the pavement.

She was treated for cuts and bruises at the Murray Clinic. X-rays revealed her arm to be broken in the socket.

Mrs. Waters, for many years a resident of Murray, is now resting comfortably at her home on South 12th.

Opposing Candidates Share Table

LOUISVILLE (UPI) — The opposing candidates for governor in the November election shared the speakers' table Tuesday at the Kentucky State Fair and briefly outlined their programs for the Commonwealth.

Bert T. Combs of Prestonsburg, the Democratic candidate, told several hundred guests at the annual Kentucky Chamber of Commerce luncheon, "I am not going to demagogue the tax issue. I do not intend to place myself in a strait jacket on this or any other major issue of this campaign which might later work to the injury of the state of Kentucky."

John M. Robison Jr., the GOP candidate, had baited Combs for saying recently that he did not consider tax policies a proper subject for the campaign. Tuesday he threatened that if Combs did not put a "price tag" on his program for the state, he would reveal the costs of proposed items in the Democratic platform himself.

Combs predicted, "We can not expect a vastly expanded economy in Kentucky which is part of the nationwide trend. Conservative tax experts estimate we will have at least 28 million additional tax dollars next year."

"I do not have, and have not had, access to the official records at Frankfort. I stated shortly after the primary and I repeat now, that I do not consider that I have made any promises which will necessarily require a tax increase."

In his preceding 15 minutes address, Robison had reiterated his former charge that Combs, while running last January, and the Combs-Wyatt merger which followed shortly after that visit.

Six Dead In Bombing, 19 Injured

By KYLE THOMPSON
HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — Children returned to classes at Edgar A. Poe elementary school today where a madman bomber turned a play period into a nightmare of horror and left six persons dead and 19 others injured.

Authorities scheduled classes today even though windows in the school were shattered by Tuesday's blast that tossed bits of human flesh on children at play.

The madman was Paul Orgeveon, a 40-year-old former convict. He carried his bomb in a big black suitcase and apparently touched it off with a timing device he worked with his foot.

Orgeveon killed himself, his own seven-year-old son, Paul, and two other seven-year-old boys, the school custodian and a school teacher.

The sixth grade class, taught by Mrs. Goldie Waters, will present the devotional. Membership dues will be collected at the door by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Norsworthy, of the membership committee.

Plane Lands Safely Foamed Runway

PLATTSBURGH AFB, N.Y. (UPI) — An Eastern Airlines Martin 404 airliner made an emergency belly-landing on a foam-covered runway at this Strategic Air Command base early today and all 36 persons aboard escaped serious injury.

The plane developed landing gear trouble while on a flight northward from New York City to Massena, N. Y. The pilot discovered the trouble while attempting to make a landing at Burlington, Vt. Municipal Airport.

Air Force officials here said the pilot passed over the operations tower several times and then decided on the "belly landing."

He circled the field for about 54 minutes to burn up his excess fuel. Air Force personnel spread a thick blanket of foam used to extinguish oil fires over a 300-foot wide section of the runway for 4,500 feet.

The pilot then set the two engines down in the middle. An Air Force spokesman who gave newsmen a running account of the emergency landing said that the plane slid almost 1,700 feet before it came to a halt.

2nd Lt. Dave Whalen, a base information officer, said sparks flew out from the plane as it slid along and a small fire broke out. This was quickly extinguished.

At least 200 Air Force personnel stood by to assist the crippled plane. Passengers and crew members were taken to the base hospital and checked by Air Force doctors and an Eastern Airlines doctor. They said the passengers and crew were in "good condition."

Wobbling Jupiter Explodes 1000 Feet Over Cape

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — A wobbling intermediate range Jupiter missile exploded in flight about 1,000 feet over the missile test center here early today. Scientists and technicians dashed safely to cover from the flying debris.

The missile, airborne with frogs, specimens of human blood and 745 and 14 pregnant mice in its nose cone, failed on blastoff at 7:45 a. m. EDT, and technicians intentionally destroyed the big bird seconds later.

It was the third missile failure here in a little over 24 hours. The same Jupiter was scheduled Tuesday after it ignited but developed a malfunction, cutting off the engine automatically. Prior to Tuesday's first Jupiter launching attempt, a Vanguard rocket was called off by the test center.

The Jupiter blew up on a spectacular orange and red ball of fire appearing as a miniature nuclear explosion. Flaming debris peppered the cape area. Missilesmen ran to cover in time to escape falling pieces from the missile.

Small fires started on the cape from the hot debris were quickly put out. The Air Force announced no one was injured in the explosion.

The missile failures came as Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev bragged in Washington, D. C., to President Eisenhower about Russia's successful moonshot.

Officials at the cape said the missile was destroyed because it veered from its course just seconds after blastoff.

Fiscal Court Urges Building Plant Here

The Fiscal Court today passed a resolution urging that the Tennessee Valley Authority consider a previously existing garage. They said they understood no new foundations were laid and the five floors of the apartment building merely added on top of the garage.

The court also extended assistance and cooperation to the TVA in the location and operation of the new steam plant.

The resolution pointed out that the people of this area have, from the inception of the TVA, given "wise, honest, faithful and loyal" support to the agency.

The resolution, moved to adoption by Squire Noel Warren and seconded by Squire Bill Scott, passed unanimously.

Honor Student Murders Two

By GEORGE B. BROWN
United Press International
AMES, Iowa (UPI) — This quiet college town was stunned today by the senseless killing of a young mother and her adopted daughter by an honor student at Iowa State University.

Police said they were set upon Tuesday by Harry McDaniel, 20, Ames, Iowa. McDaniel offered no explanation for strangling the two, police said, except to explain that he has had "momentary urges to kill."

County Attorney Donald J. Nelson took McDaniel, a junior student in electrical engineering, before Municipal Judge Albert Steinberg Tuesday night.

McDaniel, a blond, curly-haired youth, pleaded innocent to two open charges of murder and was ordered held on $30,000 bond.

Nelson said McDaniel was watching the arrival of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in this country when he got up from the television and walked outside.

McDaniel lived in a campus area known as Hawthorn Court, rows of double-duplex homes for married students.

McDaniel walked two doors away, Nelson said, and entered the home of Harold Larson, a graduate student at the university.

Larson's wife, Monica, 25, was carrying the baby, Kimmy Ann, 4 months, from a hallway when McDaniel entered the front room.

McDaniel told Stark he dragged his victims into a bedroom and put them face up, on separate beds, then left the house.

Stark said McDaniel went back to the Larson apartment about 10 minutes later in an attempt to revive the child through mouth to mouth breathing. When this failed, he returned to his apartment and called his wife, Nancy, to admit the slayings.

Apartment Building Of Five Stories Falls; Many Killed

BARLETTA, Italy (UPI) — A new five-story apartment house, containing 24 families totaling 106 persons, collapsed without warning today. Many residents were trapped and killed, and police estimated the death toll would be high.

Police said they had recovered 16 bodies so far and taken 13 injured from the twisted mass of steel and stone. An estimated 80 or so still were missing.

A doctor at Barletta's only hospital told United Press International by telephone that most of the dead showed signs of asphyxia, meaning that they were choked to death under the rubble.

The dead included men, women and children, and only one of the badly mangled bodies was identified immediately.

City officials said the house was built some six months ago over a previously existing garage. They said they understood no new foundations were laid and the five floors of the apartment building merely added on top of the garage.

Homecoming At Spring Creek Church

The annual homecoming services will be held at Spring Creek Baptist Church this Sunday, September 20. In addition to the regular Sunday School services there will be dinner on the grounds and singing in the afternoon.

Tour Of Russian Leader Off To Good Beginning

Zoning Board Has Meeting

The Murray Board of Zoning Adjustment met yesterday at 4:00 p. m. in the city hall.

Three cases were approved by the board and one rejected. Leon Cathey sought approval of a home he wished to construct on Calloway Avenue on 74 x 150 foot lot. The board approved three variances for the construction of the home.

Milton Jones requested a side-yard variance for a home on Waldrup Drive and this was also approved.

Hubert Allen requested that he be allowed to place a house trailer behind the Ashland Station on North Fourth Street, in a business district. He will operate the station. This was approved.

A request by Ray Cable to install a wheel aligning shop at the rear of his home at Broad and Vine street was not approved by the board.

Mystery Of "Thing" Explained

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — An Air Force captain ended speculation Tuesday about a mysterious "thing" found following reports of a loud explosion, when he identified it as a high-altitude wind measuring device.

Capt. Dale Trombley at Greater Pittsburgh Airport said the device was a raysonde indicator. It had been attached to a balloon and sent aloft to measure directions and wind velocity of winds at high altitudes.

The balloon carrying the device apparently had collapsed and the indicator fell into Frick Park, Trombley said.

There was no apparent connection with the explosion and the finding of the object, police said. Police and Army Ordnance and bomb disposal experts were puzzled after a day long investigation of the cone-shaped object. Weighing about 12 pounds, the object has a flashing red light on its top and three antennae.

One theory was advanced that the object was a hoax fashioned by pranksters until the Air Force made proper identification.

Cross-Examination By Press To Take Place In Afternoon

By JACK V. FOX
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, convinced his U.S. visit is off to a "good beginning," got an early start today on his quest for a first hand look at the American way of life.

Even before his second day in the United States officially began, the Soviet leader emerged in a shirt-sleeves — from Blair House for a front-porch look at early morning Washington traffic. He commented in Russian that this is a "very good town," then added in English "very good."

Later, accompanied by his wife, Nina, he drove 14 miles to Beltsville, Md. for a morning tour of the Agriculture Department's research center.

Khrushchev was welcomed to the research center by Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson who told him "we believe that food can be, and should be, an agency of peace."

Benson also told the Communist leader that under "our capitalistic free enterprise system," American farmers "have developed an agriculture unequalled anywhere in the world in its total efficiency, productivity and prosperity."

Khrushchev was scheduled for a one-hour, 40-minute tour of the scientific farm center.

But the highlight of his day was set at the National Press Club where he was to speak at a luncheon, then submit to a no-holds-barred cross-examination by the press — all of it nationally televised.

To Face Cross Examination
The Russian leader was expected to undergo the toughest public cross-examination of world Communism's aims and motives that he will face in his 13-day tour of this country.

President Eisenhower told a White House visitor today he hoped that Khrushchev's visit "would do some good."

In an exchange of toasts Tuesday night at a White House dinner, the President declared that both nations "must depend on fact and truth."

Khrushchev seemingly adopted an "olive branch" approach for his momentous trip to this country.

Besides the Beltsville trip and the Press Club appearance, Khrushchev's schedule today called for an informal get-together at a "tea" given by members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee at 5 p. m. and a dinner for President and Mrs. Eisenhower at the Soviet Embassy tonight.

Leaves On Tour Thursday
He will leave Washington Thursday morning for a cross-country tour that will take him to six American communities.

Only a few spectators were along the route as Khrushchev's police-escorted limousine sped through heavy traffic at speeds of 50 and 60 miles an hour en route to Beltsville. But a large crowd, mostly employees, was at the research center when the Soviet leader arrived there.

Khrushchev appeared well-rested, showing no signs of fatigue from his 12-hour-and-20-minute non stop flight from Moscow and his activity-filled day after his arrival here Tuesday.

Khrushchev declared in a toast at a White House dinner Tuesday night that United States and the Soviet Union are "much too strong" to quarrel. He said Russian intentions are based on the productivity and prosperity.

"If we were weak countries then it would be another matter, because when the weak quarrel they are just scratching each other's faces and it takes just a couple of days of a cosmetician and everything comes out right again," he said.

Warnings of World Shambles
"But if we quarrel, then not only our countries can suffer colossal damage, but the other countries of the world will also be involved in a world shambles."

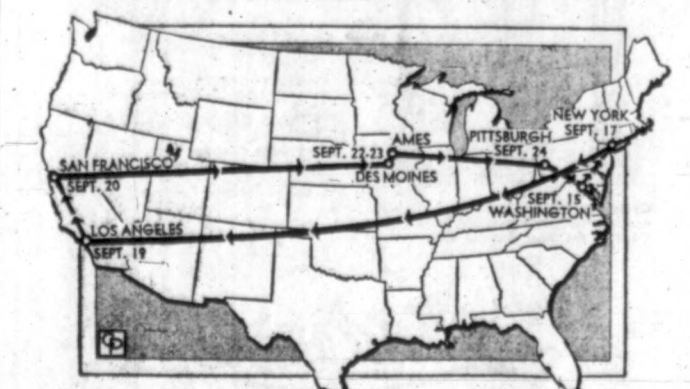

Didn't Enjoy Company
Eisenhower seemed to be enjoying Khrushchev's presence far less than the beaming Russian liked being here.

During Tuesday's formal airport welcome, the motorcade through a quiet but polite multitude of 200,000, a helicopter flight over the capital and the state dinner, Eisenhower was precisely correct and cordial as befitted a host. But he somehow resembled a West Point cadet showing his grandmother through

White Sox Almost Sure Of First Pennant In Forty Years As Cleveland Indians Lose To Boston Red Sox; Sox Defeat Yanks

By MILTON RICHMAN

United Press International
Get the champagne ready, Loo! The White Sox may be asking you to pop the cork this week end.

And by that time, the Giants should let you know definitely one way or the other.

For the White Sox, it's virtually all over but the first pennant of celebrating their first pennant winning 40 years. Their "magic number" now is down to four and for those whose mathematics may be a bit rusty, it simply means the Sox can wrap up the whole business by Friday night.

That was made possible when Cleveland fell 3½ games behind Tuesday night by losing to Boston, 1-0, after the White Sox had won a 4-3 thriller from the Yankees.

Giants in Good Shape

The Giants are in good shape, too, although not quite in the commanding position the White Sox are. San Francisco is two games in front of both Milwaukee and Los Angeles, and the Giants meet the Braves in a two-game series at home starting today, then.

Doves Bunch Up, Hunters Are Reporting

FRANKFORT, Ky. (Special)

Since the opening of the dove season on September 1, these birds have begun to bunch up and great concentrations are now to be found in the dove hunting country. First reports from the fields indicate a good population of the "flying targets" and dove hunters were well satisfied with their findings on the first few days of the season. But with the concentration of doves in various fields and feeding grounds better hunting is to be expected.

Kentucky hunters have 65 half-days in which to hunt the dove. The season will end on November 4 and the bag and possession limits this year are the same as for last, 10 per day or a limit of 20 after two or more days of hunting. The shooting hours are from 12 o'clock noon, Central Standard or Eastern Standard time prevailing, until sunset.

In Central Kentucky good hunts already have been staged and the hunters are finding as many and often more doves than last year. Mostly doves which were reared in Kentucky are now being killed, but they will move southward within a few weeks and will be replaced by flocks flying into this area from northern territories. With this shuttling operation continued good dove hunting is expected throughout the season.

Western Kentucky also reports good flocks of doves and a few counties in that area report unusually good concentrations. Most of the counties report as many, and most of them more, doves this year than were present last season. Counties near the Tennessee line in South Central Kentucky also report bumper crops, and the Bluegrass region has as many or maybe more doves than last year. In the mountain sections dove hunting is almost a lost art, since the populations there do not justify good hunts. There are some exceptions, in these areas, however, with a few of the fringe-counties reporting large flocks and good shooting.

Wildlife Men Believe Game Population Is up This Season

FRANKFORT, Ky. (Special) — One of the many duties of biologists and other field men of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources is checking the game populations throughout the year.

By these checks they are able to tell to a fair degree of accuracy what the hunter will find when he goes into the fields in the fall.

Using these checks as a basis, Department personnel is of the opinion that there should be good hunting generally throughout the state. The one exception and at this date the reports are inconclusive, is the duck situation.

Reports from the nesting grounds in the North indicate that the hatch was very limited and late. This may mean, perhaps, that there will be fewer ducks and coot flying across Kentucky and, of course, that will mean also that fewer will be taken by hunters in the Commonwealth. Just how great is the reduction in the hatch is not yet known, but the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service is so sure that number will be reduced drastically that it has shortened the hunting season for both ducks and coot.

But, on the home front, everything looks fine from the hunters' standpoint. The supply of doves and squirrels (these seasons already have opened) is evident, and hunters are reporting fine hunting for both of these species.

Surveys along the highways have shown an increased number of young rabbits in the early part of the summer and if the late production is near normal there should be much better rabbit hunting this year. Last season the biologists reported a good supply of rabbits in the early part of the summer but when hunting time rolled around they were scarce and the rabbit season was not too successful.

However, these biologists report that many of these young last year were drowned by the mid-summer rains and that the late production was below normal. That means that although the biologist are optimistic about the rabbit outlook this season, the same thing that occurred last year could happen again. However, at this writing there have been no rains heavy enough during the summer to kill off the early crop and a report on the second or fall crop has not been completed. The biologist, nevertheless, will go along with the conservation officers and predict a much better rabbit season this fall than that of last year.

Quail hunters throughout the state are optimistic. From almost every county reports indicate more adult and young birds than were seen last season and last hunting season was a good one. Basing their statements on these reports and the fact that there were no rains in June and July to kill off the young the Department is of the opinion that quail hunters will have one of the finest seasons in recent years.

Biologists know that Kentucky's deer herd is increasing year by year and they estimate a good 50,000 population in the state right now. With more deer and with the hunters having become more skilled in the art of killing deer there is every reason to believe that more deer will be harvested this gun season than ever before. This year there will be a three-day season and 34 counties will be open as compared to 31 last season. Also, last season, which was for four days, bucks only were killed on two days and does and does the other two. This year does and bucks may be killed on all three days of the season. Three counties will have only a two-day season for gun hunters. They are Pulaski, McCreary and Laurel. The season there will be on December 5 and 6, while for the other 31 counties the season will be from December 4 through Dec. 6. The bow and arrow season opens in all these 34 counties on October 21 and continues through November 19. Success in either of these seasons can be greatly curtailed by bad weather, which occurred on two days of the gun hunt in 1958.

There are not too many hunters in Kentucky who seek the ruffed grouse in the rugged eastern Kentucky mountains, but nevertheless there are greater numbers of these birds than ever before in this region. The population of the ruffed grouse has increased year by year until now there is an adequate hunting supply for all who wish to seek this elusive target. They are so plentiful that the Department has trapped some of the birds and transferred them to other areas in which they believe the ruffed grouse will thrive. So, with this bountiful supply, biologists can see no reason why the grouse hunters should not have a banner year.

Berry Good Ideas

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

BLUEBERRIES are abundant now, but they'll be on the wane in another month. If they're favorites with your family, freezer-store a supply so you can enjoy them when the season's over.

Pack Promptly

For freezing, select berries that are fully ripened. Pack 'em away the day you pick or purchase them.

If you've time, whip up some blueberry specials that can be put on ice, as it were, and defrosted when you want to serve them.

Both the salad and turnovers given here are delicious. Storing them's no problem, either.

Special Containers

The salad's molded right in square waxed-board home freezing containers, while the turnovers, separated by squares of foil or waxed paper, are sized so they can be stacked in these handy square cartons, which have plastic covers.

If you're putting away blueberries, along with peaches and strawberries, here's a suggestion. Freeze Fluffy Confetti Dressing, too, and use it to top off the fruits when you defrost them for a combination salad.

Frozen Blueberry Cream Cheese Salad: Blend 1½ c. mayonnaise with 12 oz. cream cheese.

Beat in 2 tsp. grated lemon rind and ¼ c. confectioners' sugar. Fold in 1 c. well-drained canned fruit cocktail, 1 c. sliced bananas, 2 c. fresh blueberries or 1 pt. freezer container frozen blueberries, thawed, and 1 pt. heavy cream, whipped.

Pour into 3 (1½ pt.) square waxed-board freezing containers. Cover with plastic lids. Place in freezer.

To serve, unmold and cut in slices. Place slices on bed of chicory or watercress, garnished with mounds of fresh or home-frozen blueberries.

Each 1½ pt. container yields 6 slices.

Blueberry Apple Turnovers: Prepare 2 pig pie crust mix or use recipe for making four-pie shells.

Combine 1 can apple pie apples, well drained, 1 pt. freezer container thawed frozen blueberries or 2 c. drained fresh berries, ½ c. brown sugar, 1 tsp. cinnamon and 1 tsp. grated lemon rind.

Divide pastry in half. Roll each half out to rectangle 20 by 16 in. Cut each rectangle into 10 (8 by 4 in.) oblongs.

Spoon filling on top of each oblong. Dot tops with ¼ c. butter or margarine, then fold dough over filling to form square. Prick each turnover top with fork.

Bake at 400° F. for 20 min. Cool.

Store in 2 (1 qt.) and 1 (1 pt.) waxed-board freezing containers, separating turnovers with sheets of waxed paper or aluminum foil. Seal containers with plastic covers. Place in freezer.

To serve, remove turnovers from containers. Place on cookie sheets. Heat in 425° F. oven for 5 min. Makes 20 turnovers.

Confetti Dressing Cream: Blend 1½ c. mayonnaise with 12 oz. cream cheese.

WAXED-BOARD freezing container serves as mold for Blueberry Cream Cheese Salad. Each mold yields six slices.

BLUEBERRY-APPLE Turnovers are stored for freezing. Separate with squares of foil.

TRANSPARENT plastic wrap is used to seal each cube of Confetti Dressing for freezer.

GARNISH Blueberry Apple Turnovers with cubes of Confetti Dressing. Each cube yields six slices.

Back to School Styles

By SUSAN BARDEN

SMART separates that can be combined and rearranged endlessly to stretch back-to-school wardrobes are favorites with college girls all over the country.

The three outfits pictured are of corduroy and white coordinated as complete ensembles, they were designed to be worn interchangeably as desired.

With Pants Or Skirt

A double-breasted coat has two patch pockets and goes perfectly with both tapered pants or a straight skirt.

Two-Piece Dresses

For late day there is a two-piece dress with a wide satin belt uniting skirt and top. Another two-piece dress features a brief jacket bound in braid and a graceful skirt which derives fullness from unpressed pleats.

THE SROOKER COAT is a favorite on the campus. This one has raccoon collar.

A TWO-TONE date dress features green bolice teamed with a gray dancing skirt.

HOUSTOOTH CHECKED corduroy is used for a handsome costume with short jacket and full matching skirt.

BACKSTAIRS AT THE WHITEHOUSE

By MERRIMAN SMITH

UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Backstairs

at the White House: George E. Allen, President Eisenhower's golf and bridge buddy and Gettysburg neighbor, was conspicuously absent in Scotland last week and when the chief executive called for his pals to join him at Culzean Castle.

William E. Robinson of Coca Cola and W. Alton Jones of Cities Service were in New York City when Eisenhower telephoned them at 3 a.m. from France last Friday. They caught the next jet and met him on the golf course Saturday. Naturally the question arose: Where's George? He is one of Eisenhower's closest friends and would have been expected to join the Scottish cook-out.

The explanation is this: The president wanted to include George, but when Eisenhower began exploring for his chums by overseas telephone, he found that Allen was on the Pacific Coast. Even today's 600-mile-an-hour jet transports could not have gotten Allen to Ayrshire, Scotland, in time for the festivities.

The President played all of his golf in Scotland at the Turnberry course, a flat but highly difficult seaside layout. The caddies are men in their forties and fifties, men who've made a lifetime career of the links.

The first time the President played, he saw to it that the caddies for his foursome were tipped two pounds each, the equivalent of $5.00 for 18 holes.

Playing in a foursome behind the President were his son, Maj. John S. Eisenhower, and the U.S. Ambassador, John H. Whitney. They tipped their caddies one pound each, the equivalent of $2.00.

The caddies were polite and bowing as the presidential party drove away from Turnberry, but once the Eisenhower gray Rolls Royce convertible disappeared from view, a minor revolt broke out among the caddies.

The bag-handlers of the second foursome wanted the first foursome caddies to split the difference between their fees. And the preparation had gone into her appearance. Her two stepdaughters also were attractively dressed.

The younger, Rada, wore an ivory brocade cocktail-type dress with a jacket. Her dark blonde hair was brushed into a casual cap. The other, Yulia, wore a dotted black and white net dress with her hair pulled back in a severely-braided chignon.

Mrs. Khrushchev and her stepdaughters obviously wanted to make a good impression.

much less than Mrs. Eisenhower, who was in gold brocade and white kid gloves.

But the Soviet premier's wife looked her very best, and it was obvious that painstaking the academy.

It also appeared Eisenhower did not like what amounted to Khrushchev's blatant boasting at the airport about the Soviet moon rocket and what could be taken as a hint to the United States an American one, there. One could scarcely miss the implication that if the Russians can hit the moon with a rocket, they can also hit targets on earth.

Another significant exchange of the visit so far came at the White House formal dinner Tuesday night. Khrushchev ignored the invitation's specification of white tie and showed up in a black suit and grey four-in-hand. He found himself in some very improbable company—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, CIA Chief Allen W. Dulles, party giver Perle Mesta and New York Stock Exchange President Keith Funt among others.

Other ranking guests were Vice President Richard Nixon, Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn.

HONORED — A bronze statue was erected to the memory of the late showman George M. Cohan at Duffy Square in the heart of the theatrical district in New York. He is remembered for such song hits as "Over There" and "Give My Regards to Broadway." Standing beneath statue are four of Cohan's grandchildren. They are (l. to r.): George Ronkin, Jr., Michaela Cohan, Mary Ronkin, Mrs. Penny Williams.

first four held out resolutely against any sharing of the wealth. Some sort of temporary non-aggression pact must have been achieved, however, because when the two foursomes went out the next day there was peace among the caddies. The rate was uniform—everybody got two pounds.

This uniformly higher rate of caddy income was said to reflect the arrival of golfers Robinson and Jones.

The White House party learned a lot about tips during the President's visit to England. On several occasions London taxi drivers and employees at the Grosvenor House where the Eisenhower staff stayed pointed out quite politely that a tip was too large.

This was due usually to unfamiliarity with the British currency and the help was happy to explain, occurrences which were quite nerve-rattling to seasoned travelers who would never have such an experience in the average American hotel.
